

Order Picker License Saskatchewan

Order Picker License Saskatchewan - Order picking is otherwise referred to as order preparation operation. This is among the chief processes in a warehouse and comprises people known as order pickers, taking and collecting articles in a certain quantity prior to shipment so as to complete customer orders. Order picking is a basic warehousing process. The efficiency in which this particular task is done could be directly connected to a supply chain's productivity. Therefore, order picking is one of the most controlled logistic methods. Order picking falls in the category of the warehouse management system.

There are specific types of order picking which include: pick to box method, wave picking method, piece picking or picker to part method, zone picking method and sorting systems method.

The pick to box method comprises the order picker only filling the boxes with things which are from their particular station. The box then moves on to other locations to until the order is complete. In this particular method, there is no movement of the order picker workers. In the wave picking method, the order pickers move around to be able to collect the necessary products for some orders. The piece picking or picker to part method is similar where the order picker or pickers move to collect the items required but for one order only.

There is no movement by the order picker in the sorting systems method. Rather, products are brought to the orderpicker by an automatic system like an automatic storage system or a conveyor system. In the zone picking method, each order picker is assigned to one specific area. They are responsible for just realizing order picking in this specific zone.
